In the Caribbean Sea,
where the strong currents run,
lived a mother sperm whale and her little whale one.
“Sing,” said the mother.
“I sing,” said the one.
So they sung all day,
where the strong currents run.

Teach your little one the fun way to count with some of the beautiful creatures in the Caribbean Sea. Join the little sea turtle as his mother teaches him to graze on sea grasses and the baby manatees as they learn to float. Clap, sing and copy the actions of the babies in this easy-to-learn rhyme.

There are so many new creatures to see in this beautifully illustrated book that your child will want to read it again and again.
