After graduating from high school, Maggie Diaz decided to pursue a career in photography. She moved to Chicago, where she honed her skills by photographing the vibrant city scenes. Her unique approach, combining street photography with a touch of surrealism, caught the attention of many.

The Breakthrough

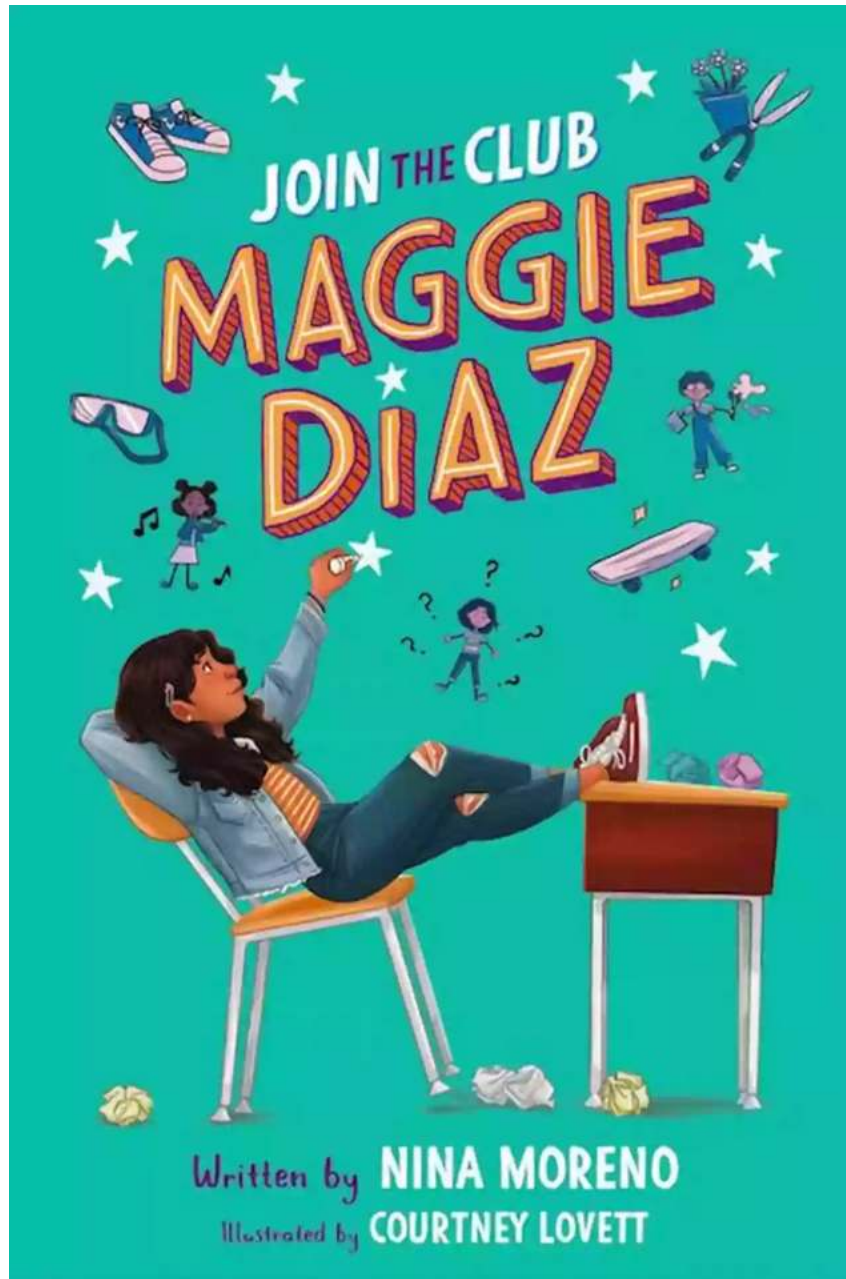

In the early 1960s, Maggie Diaz made a life-changing decision to move to Australia. It was during this time that she truly flourished as an artist. Diaz's ability to capture raw emotions and tell captivating stories through her photographs set her apart from others in the field.

One of her most famous works, 'The Widows of Ashington', depicts a group of women clutching black umbrellas as they walk together in mourning. This powerful image resonated with audiences and showcased Diaz's unparalleled talent in evoking emotions through photography.

Joining the Club

Maggie Diaz's affinity for capturing human experiences didn't stop at photography. She believed in the power of community and founded the 'Maggie Diaz Photography Club'. It started as a small gathering of like-minded individuals, keen on exploring the art of photography.

Over the years, the club grew and became a platform for aspiring photographers to learn, share ideas, and collaborate. Diaz's guidance and mentorship paved the way for many promising talents in the industry. Today, the club continues to thrive, offering workshops, exhibitions, and a sense of belonging to photography enthusiasts of all levels.

The Legacy

Throughout her career, Maggie Diaz captured moments that not only reflected the times she lived in but also carried timeless themes of love, loss, and resilience. Her work has been exhibited in prestigious galleries around the world and has received critical acclaim from renowned art critics.

This humorous and heartfelt middle-grade debut by Nina Moreno with illustrations by Courtney Lovett is perfect for fans of Celia C. Pérez and Terri Libenson, and any reader still deciding what their passion in life is.

"MAYBE I'M GOOD AT SOMETHING I DON'T EVEN KNOW ABOUT YET."

Everyone in Maggie Diaz's life seems to be finding their true passion. The one thing that defines them as a person. Her best friends Zoey and Julian are too busy to hang out after school thanks to band and comics club. Mom is finishing her last semester in college. And Maggie's perfect older sister Caro is perfectly-perfect at sports and tutoring.

So Maggie cooks up a plan to join every club she can! But trying to fit in with type-A future leaders, gardening whizzes, and the fearless kids in woodshop is intimidating, exhausting, and seriously confusing. And juggling homework, friends, and all of her after-school activities is way harder than it looks.

Seventh grade is all about figuring out who you are -- good thing Maggie Diaz has the perfect plan!
