Enos Mills, often referred to as the "Father of Rocky Mountain National Park," was a passionate advocate for preserving and appreciating the splendors of nature. It was his dream to create a place where people could come and experience the raw beauty of the Rockies, and the Enos Mills Cabin became the physical embodiment of that dream.

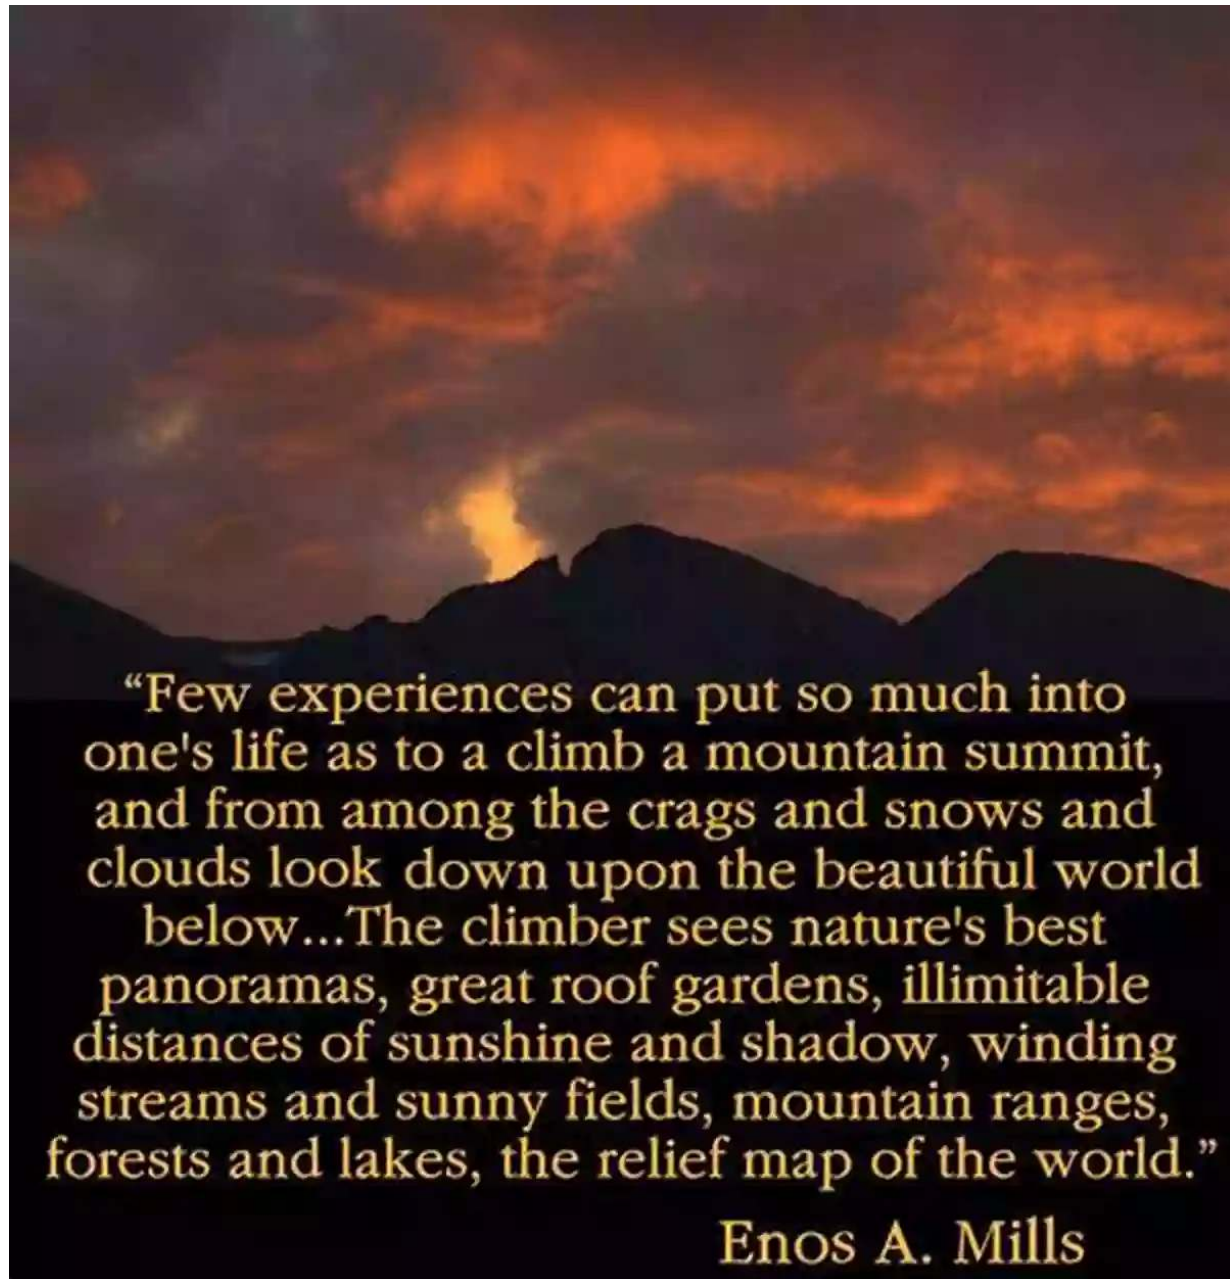

The cabin itself is a rustic masterpiece, showcasing the architectural style prevalent in the early 20th century. Constructed predominantly with logs and stones, it seamlessly blends into the natural surroundings, harmoniously coexisting with the geological wonders that abound in this region. The interior of the cabin is a time capsule, preserving the ambiance of a bygone era and evoking a sense of nostalgia for a simpler time.

The Geological Gems Surrounding the Cabin

One cannot fully appreciate the allure of the Enos Mills Cabin without delving into the geological marvels that envelop it. Step outside the cabin, and you'll find yourself immersed in a veritable playground of geological wonders.

The Rocky Mountains are a geological treasure trove, offering a myriad of fascinating features that leave both geologists and nature enthusiasts in awe. Towering peaks, deep canyons, glacial valleys, and gleaming lakes paint a breathtaking natural canvas that stretches as far as the eye can see. These stunning landscapes are the result of millions of years of geological processes shaping this wondrous region.

The Enos Mills Cabin, nestled in such a picturesque location, provides an ideal vantage point for geology enthusiasts to study and appreciate the wonders of the Rockies.

“Few experiences can put so much into one's life as to a climb a mountain summit, and from among the crags and snows and clouds look down upon the beautiful world below...The climber sees nature's best panoramas, great roof gardens, illimitable distances of sunshine and shadow, winding streams and sunny fields, mountain ranges, forests and lakes, the relief map of the world.”

Do you know that -- the Great Pyramid is made of shellfish? The Grand Canyon has been dipped into the ocean three times? We are sinking at the rate of one foot every nine thousand years? The Mississippi delta will soon be as large as one of the smaller Balkan states? Camels once lived as natives in the United States? The Niagara River is new, the Rio Grande is a vagabond, and the Tennessee a pirate? Chalk is made chiefly of skeletons?

"Romance of Geology" is one of Enos Mills' last books, published after his death in 1922. It is a great collection of stories of the lives of rivers, mountains, oceans and deserts, mirages and glaciers, for both the seasoned rock hound and the newly curious about the ways weather and elements have changed our world!

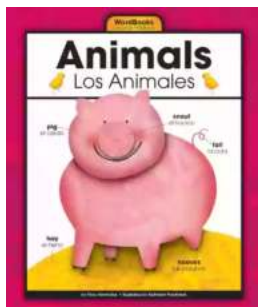

Enos A. Mills is known as "The Father of Rocky Mountain National Park" and his many years of adventuring led to several books on the natural world and the fascinating stories he discovered in it.

This edition has been published by the Enos Mills Cabin, owned and operated by descendants of Enos A. Mills. We have included letters and other memorabilia from our archives to make your experience with Enos' stories richer and more enjoyable.
