On May 13, 1862, with the perfect blend of strategic planning and audacity, Smalls seized the opportunity to escape his enslavement. Working as a deckhand on the CSS Planter, he cleverly devised a plan to commandeer the ship and sail it to freedom, along with his fellow slaves and their families.

The story of Smalls' daring escape is one that will forever be etched in the annals of history. In the late hours of the night, disguised as the ship's white captain, Smalls navigated through treacherous waters under the cover of darkness, skillfully avoiding Confederate checkpoints.

As the sun rose over the horizon, a Union blockade came into view. Raising a white flag and delivering the Planter into the hands of Union forces, Smalls secured the freedom of 17 enslaved individuals and delivered valuable intelligence to the Union Navy.
