It advocates for the development of our spiritual faculties, such as intuition and empathy, which can guide us toward a more fulfilling and purposeful existence.

The philosophy of Spiritism asserts that every individual possesses an immortal soul, capable of evolving through multiple reincarnations. This belief system encourages self-reflection and personal responsibility, reminding us that our actions in this life will shape our future experiences.

4th Final Revision 2019 – Translated by Janet Duncan

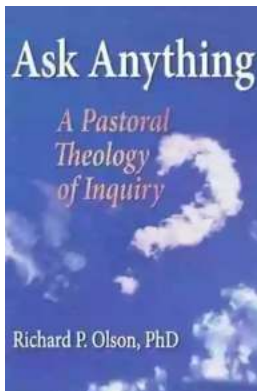

The title Gospel in this instance refers to the New Testament's published together with the Old Testaments in the Bible. These are the Teachings of Jesus, as reported through His Disciples long after His death.

Due to the fact that Jesus frequently spoke in parables, it is often difficult to come to a logical and rational as to the meaning of His Teachings. This has given rise to many people, groups or organizations, each leaning towards their own individual interpretations of the Teachings.

However, the Spiritist Teachings as collected, researched and codified by Allan Kardec during the second half of the 1800's were compiled from reliable communications received from more than a hundred different mediums, unknown to each other; that were sent to Kardec for his scrutiny. Resulting in him organising not only this present book, but also four others.

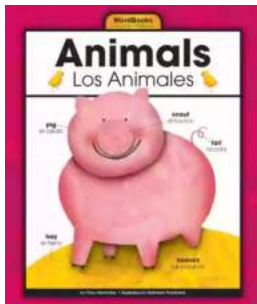

This is the third book codified by Kardec explaining many of the parables from the

New Testaments showing us aspects that are both rational and more logical. It helps us come to realise why we suffer so many troubles in our lives, including why we are suffering the effects from moral laxity today. It also explains the existence of the LAWS OF NATURE that govern the Universe, that are far greater than Human Laws and that Love, properly understood, is the all-powerful element for peace and fellowship so preparing more happiness for our future existence as eternal beings.
