Crime And Punishment

Alt attribute: Crime And Punishment - An Intense Psychological Thriller by Fyodor Dostoevsky

Crime And Punishment, one of the most renowned novels in literary history, is a captivating masterpiece written by Fyodor Dostoevsky. Published in 1866, this novel delves deep into the psychological and moral struggles of its main character, Rodion Raskolnikov, an impoverished ex-student living in St. Petersburg.

The Gambler

Alt attribute: The Gambler - A Tale of Risk, Addiction, and Obsession by Fyodor Dostoevsky

The Gambler, another unforgettable work by Dostoevsky, explores the destructive consequences of gambling addiction. This semi-autobiographical novel, published in 1867, follows the story of Alexei Ivanovich, a tutor who becomes entangled in the world of high-stakes gambling.

The Idiot

Alt attribute: The Idiot - A Masterpiece of Innocence and Tragic Irony by Fyodor Dostoevsky

The Idiot is a tragicomic novel published by Dostoevsky in 1869. The story revolves around Prince Lev Nikolaevich Myshkin, a character portrayed as a saintly, kind, and compassionate person. Through his interactions with other complex characters, the novel explores themes of innocence, love, and societal expectations.

The Possessed
